Cultures Of Resistance

Directed by Iara Lee (2011) 73 minutes

Worldwide, people from all walks of life are finding creative ways to oppose war and promote peace, justice, and sustainability. Culture—including film, music, and food—is fertile terrain for this struggle. Education that nourishes a critical mind and fortifies the soul is just as essential.

With this in mind, director Iara Lee embarked on a journey to better understand a world increasingly embroiled in conflict and, as she saw it, heading for self-destruction. After several years, traveling over five continents, Iara encountered growing numbers of people who committed their lives to promoting change. This is their story...

Our guests this evening are: Ramzy Baroud, a veteran US-Arab journalist, internationally-syndicated columnist, an author of several books and the editor of the Palestine Chronicle. Peter Lippman, a native of Seattle, is a life-long human rights activist. He has participated in grassroots human rights campaigns at home and in the Middle East, Latin America, and Southeast Europe. He has also been involved in extensive ethnographic pursuits and pays attention to cultural resistance wherever he goes.
